Town and District News

See the "dry" farmers smile.

And then it rained some more.

A little more sunshine is now quite desirable.

Geo. Newbury arrived Tuesday from Maple Creek.

Order early the Call's special Exhibition number.

The Palace Hotel is to be thoroughly renovated and repainted.

F. F. Hunter of Swift Current was in town Tuesday transacting business.

T. H. Beach has started the erection of a house on his lots in the east end of the town.

There is very little use preaching the doctrine of irrigation to the people of this district at present.

The Foresters have decided to give a ball on July 1st and to devote the proceeds to building a sidewalk to their hall.

Messrs. Tucker and Tremaine arrived a week ago from England and will spend the summer with friends on the Red Deer river.

A fine lot of trees arrived last week and were planted at the Gleichen Demonstration farm, and a few of them at the station.

The firm of Wakefield & Milliken has been dissolved and each member has started business separately as building contractors.

Howell Harris has been in town a few days figuring how he is to get lumber and a car of sulphur across the Bow to the Circle ranch.

D. C. Wishart planted a large number of shrubs and fruit trees and bushes in his garden this spring and today everything is growing and worth seeing.

A couple of travelling musicians struck town last week and Friday evening supplied music for a dance, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a good crowd, a number attending to hear the music.

T. H. Beach spent a day in Calgary last week and upon his return remarked: "We have no kick coming on Gleichen's streets, after seeing Calgary. Up there it is simply awful. Calgary's streets are half deep with mud."

Frank Vigor is materially assisting in beautifying Gleichen by bringing in a number of good trees from the Rosebud each week on his stage. Those planted at the English church make a great improvement to the grounds.

A. D. Kelly returned yesterday from a trip to England, where he went last October, and is accompanied by a bride. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will make their home on his ranch along the Red Deer river. Their friends join in wishing them a long life of usefulness and happiness.

The firm of Millie & Wilson, butchers, has been dissolved. Mr. Kingmouth having purchased J. A. Wilson's interest in the business. The new firm took charge of the business on June 1st, and their many friends join in wishing them every success. Mr. Wilson will devote his entire attention to his ranch north of the Red Deer river in the future.

The ferry across the Bow river south-east of town broke away Monday and went up, far down stream, that it has not yet been located. The Council has wired the department at Edmonton to this effect and asked that a new ferry be put in at a point further east, where Mr. Riley already intimated it would be put when the new bridge is completed.

The friends of W. J. McEwen, who is attending the Albert College, Belleville, Ontario, will be pleased to learn of his success in the athletic line, in that college. He won six prizes and landed the gold medal by a good margin, for the best all round athlete of the college. He won first in the 220 yard dash, second in the 100 yard dash, second in the pole vault, third in putting the shot, second in broad jump, and first in hop-step-and-jump. He had a sufficient lead then that he did not need to enter the mile race for any more points, and ended with seven points ahead of the next competitor. He was awarded the gold medal and four prizes, this being the limit which any one person can claim. We heartily congratulate him, and feel proud to hear of one of our Gleichenites doing so well.

H. C. Garret, the tinsmith, handles the best light for stores, churches or dwellings yet manufactured. It has the advantage of being inexpensive and also very easy on the eyes—two most important points, but you should ask him about the many other good qualities. He is ready to install windmills and do many other jobs that you possibly may think cannot be done here.

The water in the Bow river has been rising very fast the past week, owing to the heavy rains, and it has reached the highest point in the past five years. On Monday it is stated that the water rose ten feet in twenty-four hours. Some damage is reported at the new bridge and construction work has been temporarily suspended.

Mrs. Dickenson and Mrs. Stocken went to Calgary Monday to attend the Women's Auxiliary convention now being held there as delegates from the local branch.

PROF. CAMPBELL COMING TO GLEICHEN

Under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture of Alberta Prof. W. H. Campbell is advertised elsewhere in this issue to deliver an address in Gleichen on Friday, June 26th, on the subject: "Scientific Soil Culture and what it means to the Great West".

Nearly every one has heard or read of Prof. Campbell's theory of "dry" farming, so that he hardly needs an introduction of any kind in delivering a series of lectures in this province. Nevertheless, it will be decidedly interesting to see and hear this man talk on the subject that wrought such wonderful results for the farmers of the semi-arid districts of the United States.

Last year the same gentleman delivered a number of lectures in this province and wherever he spoke it is stated the deepest interest was manifested at the time, which has been followed by some practical demonstrations this year. It may, therefore, be expected that the farmers of this district will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing him when he arrives.

The Gleichen district is admittedly a semi arid one, and while it is blessed with the greatest irrigation project on this continent there will always be a large portion of the land that cannot be reached by irrigation, in fact there will be few sections that will not have some land that water cannot be run on to.

Furthermore, the large tract of land south of the Bow river may never be artificially watered, and, indeed, it is claimed to be so favorably situated that the rain fall makes it quite unnecessary.

Thus just such theories as the professor advocates should be intensely interesting.

It will hardly be necessary to urge our farmers to attend this meeting, which the government has arranged for their particular advantage, for we will be greatly mistaken if they do not readily see the advantages for themselves.

TOWN TAXES RAISED TO EIGHT MILLS

A meeting of the town Council was held last Friday evening when a motion was passed making the taxes for the year 1903 eight mills on the dollar. The assessed value of the town property was placed at $195,000, which will make roughly speaking $1,600 to be raised in taxes this year, besides poll and dog tax.

While this amounts to more than double the amount of taxes last year there will not be very much of it to be spent on improvements as there is considerable of last year's accounts to be paid and the first payments on the fire engines have to be met.

The Gleichen Council has awarded contracts for the building of a crossing from W. Stuart & Co's. corner across Third Avenue and a sidewalk fence along the north side of Gleichen street. They have also let a contract for a sidewalk on Crawford street from C. J. Bray's store to Fifth Avenue.

The Council had a number of other petitions in hand for crossings and sidewalks, but decided that nothing further can be done until they issue their tax notices and collect for same.

ROBERT WIGMORE DROWNED IN RED DEER

Robt. Wigmore, an old time rancher, well known throughout this district lost his life in the Red Deer river, 12 miles north east of Carbon, Saturday afternoon.

Deceased has been for many years located on a ranch 25 miles up the river from Dorothy and his many friends here deeply regret to learn of his death.

The Calgary Herald furnishes the following report of his drowning:

From the meagre reports brought to the city by W. W. Wasson, who was not an eye witness of the fatality, it appears that Wigmore was attempting to ford the river at the point where he had lost his life, with a team and wagon.

The horses were taken over alright, and the unfortunate man returned to the other side to ferry his wagon over. He was assisted in pulling the ferry by the owner and son, whose names are not known. The strong wind blowing at the time, and swift current, overturned the small ferry and all three were thrown into the swift current.

The owner of the ferry grabbed his son by the coat collar, and held him above water until he grappled the boat again, but Wigmore was carried down stream and drowned.

When Wasson left Carbon the body had not been recovered.

Robert Wigmore, who was about 50 years of age, was a son of Samuel Wigmore, the well known rancher, and one of the earliest settlers in the Calgary district.

James Wigmore, who lives at Shepard, is an uncle of the drowned man.

NEW RY. FOR THE GLEICHEN DISTRICT

Calgary Albertan:

A gentleman who arrived in the city Tuesday from the Rosebud district informed the Albertan that a C. P. R. survey party, in charge of Engineer Sharp, are camped on the Rosebud at the crossing of the Kneehill trail, about forty miles north east of Calgary.

They are engaged in surveying a road from Tilly, on the main line, to a point on the C. & E. road at or near Crossfield, a distance of about 200 miles. The new road will run right through the middle of the C.P.R. irrigation district, and will open up for settlement a very fine tract of country.

The Call has received another unsigned letter for publication, which cannot be published until the name of the writer is sent to this office, although we are fairly sure who the writer is. The letter attempts to deal with the "cash system" from a ranchers point of view and abuses merchants and tradesmen generally. The writer intimates he does not like the thought of paying interest on money he has the use of for six months or a year and that so long as a merchant can wear a white shirt and a respectable suit of clothes he should be happy. We take the writer to be quite a sarcastic jester, but would say that we hope no writer who undertakes to discuss this question will do so unless they take into consideration the benefits to all classes of people. To make the cash system a success it must be of general benefit and it is only for the benefit to the every person that the Call took up the subject recently by the request of farmers, ranchers, merchants and others, and we earnestly hope it may work out to the benefit of all concerned.

PUBLIC MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

A public meeting will be held at the School House next Tuesday evening to discuss the details for the Gleichen exhibit at the Dominion Exhibition, which opens at Calgary on the 29th of this month. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Board of Trade, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance for on the result depends largely whether or not Gleichen's exhibit will be a success. We had better far have no exhibit if it is not be a worthy one, one that we may be proud of. Let every man who has any interest in this district show it by his presence and willingness to take advantage of this the greatest opportunity to make our resources known we have a good one likely to have for a long time to come.

DRY FARMING ADDRESSES

Addresses on the principles underlying farming under semi-arid conditions, explaining particularly what is known as "Dry Farming", will be given under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture and the local Agricultural Societies as follows:

Room at The Top

The price of brains has been taking startling leaps upward during the past few years. It has reached its highest point in the contract made by a well-known firm of capitalists to pay John Hays Hammond an annual salary of a half million dollars for his services as a mining engineer.

Twenty years ago the payment of such a price for one man's work in any walk of life would have set the world agog. But today the announcement scarcely creates a passing comment. For this is a century of big fortunes, and the public has grown so used to the sound of millions that it refuses to flicker an eyelid when told that one man's brains command such a sum, not in speculation but in a hard and fixed salary.

The reason for this tremendous increase in price is, as usual, the scarcity of supply. Charles W. Schwab once said that there were more positions in Pittsburg paying over $10,000 a year than there were men to fill them. So we have the spectacle of one famous engineer hired from work for his country on the Panama Canal because some great railroad must have a man of his caliber. And of financial institutions in the United States drawing from the President's cabinet and from the government's experts in currency to keep up with the keen competition.

There is danger in this out-of-proportion payment for man's knowledge when socialism finds arguments in just such facts. But there is stimulation, too, for everyone, especially the young man who is getting ready for his work in the world. There always has been room at the top, and there is more room today than ever before.

A few have tried to discourage The Call against raking over the knockers occasionally, but we can't afford to quit until the knocker goes out of business.
Why, only the other day we heard of a man to a not far distant town disagreeing with a stranger who remarked that the town had a very bright future. Just think of that. The least the fellow might have done was to keep quiet and let the stranger indulge in pleasant reflections. The trouble is some people don't seem to know when they are knocking, and for the sake of an argument will disagree on the slightest opportunity. Some appear to think that in order to succeed they must say some thing detrimental of their opposition or their neighboring town. This is a mighty big mistake. Gleichen people, for instance, cannot afford to say one word against Bassano, Namaka, Strathmore, Langdon or any other place hereabouts, for can the people of these places afford to speak ill of Gleichen. All are in one district and the same conditions exist. If we narrow down the quality of the land or the prospects to any one of these localities then we become small and our opportunities proportionate. All of these places may not become cities, but all will be good business points, and the points that cut the knockers out early and the business men are the most enterprising will be the most successful.
The booster's drum will bring more pilgrims into camp than the knocker's hammer.

It is not very well known that in the hall of one of the great colleges in England there hangs a frame enclosing a few sentences of which Abraham Lincoln is the author. They are considered the best English that was ever written.
You or I might read them over and call them very simple indeed. And they are so simple that any child who reads at all can read and understand them.
That is one thing that makes them great.
It was his being simple and plain that made Lincoln himself great.

Now here here is a little paragraph by Lincoln which he made a rule of his conduct. Suppose you try to write it over and see how much you can improve it. See if each word is the right one and try to find a better word for the place. Notice how simple this is, all but two are words of a single syllable:

"I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true. I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to live up to the light I have. I must stand with anybody that stands right, stand with him while he is right, and part with him when he goes wrong."

An Oriental traveller says that dresses suits worn by Canadian belles should not Herald.

Nothing looks funnier than the young man who is letting a little bunch of tuzz grow in front of each ear.

We shudder to think what Jay Gould would say if he should come back and begin expressing his opinion of recent happenings.

If some men would act at the lunch counter like they act when eating at home, they would be fired bodily by an enraged restaurant keeper.

If we know it we are not going to visit with the man whose children shrink away from him when he gets home.

We'd have to eat a lot of rarebit and lobster before we could dream such shapes as this year's tennis headgear shows.

It takes so little to make a child happy and the dividends are so great, the wonder is that more men do not make the investment.

A FEW SELECTIONS

The sacrifice that so many of our young men are making to secure a position in a store is really amusing. In almost all parts of the country let any storekeeper proclaim that he has, or is likely to have a vacancy, and he is forthwith over run with applications. We know of young men working for from two hundred to three hundred dollars per annum, and boarding themselves, who can command as mechanics, three times that sum.
Why is it that good mechanics of almost every kind are so scarce, and are commanding their own price, while so many young men are turning their backs upon their father's calling, and lying in wait for opportunities to measure calico between dingy walls, for a mere pittance?

Do not flatter yourself young man, that your fortune is made, that you are a gentleman, when once you have secured a position behind Messrs. Yard-sticks & Co's. counter. You have an exceedingly hard road to travel to achieve anything like success. You may as well understand it first as last.
Unless you have a large amount of energy, and are willing to work hard and long, and wait patiently, and have some natural adaptation to the business, the chances are that you will fail. Don't take on any airs the first year. The most detestable sight imaginable is a youth with half an intellect half developed, puffed up with an exalted idea of his own importance because of his good clothes and six months experience in a second rate retail shop.

Only one in a great many of our merchants succeeds in making a fortune.
Very many of them fail; and most of those who do not fail, only succeed by a lifetime of weary labor. No business is more confining. We know whereof we speak and we know right well the value of a little respite, and a little snuff of pure air, and the pleasure of an occasional touch of bright, warm sunshine on the pallid cheek. But boys if you think there is no other road to happiness, wealth and renown but to sell dry goods, try it. Let us assure you, however, that so long as there are so few learning to make boots and shoes and harnesshoes and pitchforks and brick walls, the people continue to need them so much, the chances in that direction are better for building a fortune, and establishing yourself as useful, honored and influential members of society. If you are established in any business we count you not to leave it. It is a question which requires consideration, and may, or may not, be advisable. But if you are about to enter some field of life labor, be not influenced by any false considerations of ease or respectability.
You will succeed in nothing without continued effort and if you have ability and are willing to work to that end you will be successful, and success will command respect.

An exchange says: "A lawyer charges a man ten dollars for ten minutes' conversation—the man insists on paying it.
A doctor charges two dollars for a prescription and the patient says: "Oh, pshaw, is that all?" An undertaker charges a hundred dollars for conducting funeral and he is just lovely with every body inside and out side the family. A man buys a gold brick and apologizes for not having bitten before. An editor walks a mile in the hot sun to get facts of a death or wedding or social function and spends three hours writing it up and tells lies and praises people until he hates himself. Then if he makes an insignificant omission or error or charges five cents straight for three extra copies he is stingy, careless, good for nothing old cuss, who never gets anything right and charges four times the price of city papers twice as large. In short, he is a confounded most any old thing and ought to be run out of town. Talk about the ice man. How would you like to run a newspaper?"

How easy it is for a handsome woman to make a man think she is interested in what he is saying.

Did you ever notice the distinct and careful enunciation of the young lady who has just become the possessor of a gold tooth?

The man who never earns more than he is paid for is usually the man who is always complaining because he is underpaid.

NO CLASSES IN THE WEST

The ways of the people of Western Canada frequently puzzle the eastern new arrival and always the Old World comers. For a time they wonder that class distinctions find no sharply drawn lines and they are astounded to find that instead of asking for a pedigree of a man's antecedents, the one qualification for society, business or anything else is to answer the question, "What can you do?" and when it is answered to do it.

In the west mankind is judged entirely upon ability and manliness. His birth, whether high or low, is not considered unless he can "make good". If he deals fairly with his fellows and shows a desire to succeed he is as good as the best men and no better than the rest of the people. Yet when he succeeds his fellows are ever ready to pat him on the back and wish him greater success.

The Calgary Albertan makes the following timely remarks on class distinctions:

There is no aristocracy in this city, or for that matter as far as we know, in this province. There is no mock aristocracy, for the soil in this country is not good for it, and the Chinook wind dries it up and blows it away. There are no masses in this country, and there are no classes.

The one great advantage of this Western province is the perfect understanding there is between all persons. Every one works here but a wee little bunch of idlers, and as far as we can find out that is the only class which is really neglected and looked down upon by the general public.

We all work, we all have to work, and the trouble is that up to the present time most people have had to work a little bit too hard and have not had enough leisure time to take all that there is out of life.

And in this country all manner of work is honorable. Not only is the merchant and professional man no more respected than the man who is working in the trenches, but he does not consider himself as any better. He may think he is somewhat better than the smart idler, who hangs about the clubs or the bars. And he is right there.

Not only are there no masses and no classes and aristocracy and all that, but there are no such classes in training.

The contrast between the good understanding between different persons here and the way that it is, for instance even in eastern Canada, may be noticed in the way that city people esteem country people. In some parts of the east light headed city clerks—and there are many of them—speak of the farmer with some contempt. In this country, if any person has contempt for the other, it is the country people, but that is not noticeable or real.

And that is the way all through. The man, and not his business or trade, is respected. There are no masses and no classes, and there is no aristocracy, either as a matter of fact or in imagination. If one person is not as good and as much respected as the next man, there must be something radically wrong with him.

The Call sent out a whole bunch of "invitations" the other day as a sign that the editor thought there was something coming to him and that he would like once more to look upon some collateral. A few bunches of the same character of "invitations" have recently arrived at this office and some not quite so polite as those sent from here in fact some are really quiet hurry-up messages that require some attention. Now, if those we sent out receive an immediate R.S.V.P. it will be real nice for we can then get back in the same manner, and perhaps save that polite individual a trip who calls with: "The Manager would very much like to see you."

The Call job department is replete in every particular and turns out first-class work. Send along your letterheads, billheads, envelopes, business cards, etc., and we will give you good work at reasonable prices.

The regular meetings of the Gleichen and District Board of Trade are held the second Tuesday of each month at 3 p. m. The next meeting takes place on June 9.
